agata

Agate is a variety of natural quartz used in ancient times, as far back as 3000 B.C., for decorative purposes, production of vases, art and jewellery. The stone was given its name by a Greek philosopher, Theophrastus, which discovered the stone along the shore line of the river Achates in Sicily, now called Dirillo.

This inspired us to recreate this gem, reinventing it with precious ceramic materials.

Light reflections blend into silky glazes, recalling the typical banded and striped agate.

The 4 available colors vary from purple, to yellow to blue, all the way to a contrast of white & black.

The size is 60x60, and has 9 mixed patterns internally which create a faceted rich and harmonious collection.

Adaptable to small and large settings, always with a delineated character.
